Layman, Monday evening, Oct. 30. R. A. Underwood and A. A. Crawford.

Scott Town, Monday evening, Oct. 30. Hon. W. H. Leeper and Dr. R. S. Gage.

Dalzell, Tuesday evening, Oct. 31. Hon. W. H. Leeper and Dr. R. S. Gage.

It is with regret that we have to announce that Senator J. B. Foraker will be with us on the 27th, as has been announced and expected. The reason which compels the eminent gentleman from coming is that his activity in the campaign is making too severe a draft upon his physique; and other places as well as ourselves must suffer his absence.

Sensor Foraker would have received a warm welcome here, for his friends in this county are many and it has been seven years since he has spoken here, but a proper care of himself will of necessity postpone his visit to our city.

In place of Senator Foraker the County Executive Committee has been particularly fortunate in securing a man who stands in a most exalted place as a campaigner—he being none other than Senator Julius C. Burrows, of Michigan. Senator Burrows needs no introduction to Marietta or Washington county audience, for his speech delivered here several years ago on the Tariff has gone into campaign history as being one of the greatest ever delivered in this county.

Beside Senator Burrows, we shall have the privilege of hearing Judge Nash, our gubernatorial candidate, and Hon. John A. Caldwell, of Cincinnati. Both are able gentlemen in the political world, and will be heartily welcomed by our people.

Present at this meeting to lend its grace will be the peerless Marietta Band, which will render a choice program of concert music.

This meeting will be such a one as will stand out strongly as one of our greatest campaign demonstrations, and must in the nature of things bring about great results for the good of the Republican party.

Parents' and Teachers' Union.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Parents' and Teachers' Union held at the High School building Friday afternoon. Several subjects of interest were discussed, and good talks were delivered by Rev. Mr. Cherrington and Rev. E. A. Coll. Miss Little Maria read an excellent paper on "Our Training School." The next meeting will be held in December.

The Politician.

Washington, Oct. 20.—President McKinley returned from his long trip of more than five thousand miles, during which he made more than one hundred speeches, more firmly convinced than ever that the people of this country are overwhelmingly in favor of the permanent retention of the Philippines; also with increased faith in the patriotism of the people. He is proud of the reception given him everywhere he stopped, but modestly says that the enthusiasm was not for him personally, but for the principles he represents by reason of his being the official head of the administration. Not a single unpleasant incident occurred during the long trip and so perfect were the arrangements for Mrs. McKinley's comfort that she suffered no inconvenience and returned to Washington feeling better than when she started.

As there are only about six weeks left for President McKinley to prepare one of the most important messages ever sent to Congress, he will be compelled to deny personal interviews, except upon important public matters, in order to devote his entire time to the preparation of his message, which will necessarily be a long one. It is already known that the message will take strong ground for the permanent retention of the Philippines, and for action on the part of Congress which will leave no doubt in the minds of the Filipinos of the intention of this country to retain the sovereignty of the islands. Influenced by the contractionists in this country, the Filipinos now believe, or pretend to believe, that public sentiment in this country against the permanent retention of the Philippines is on the increase. President McKinley wishes Congress to show by its action that this is not true, believing that such action will do much for the permanent pacification of the islands as whipping the armed Filipinos will do. The message will also probably contain a surprise for the Democrats in its treatment of the trust question, which cannot be outlined at this time without violating confidence. It is so silent as to say that President McKinley is, as usual, thoroughly alive to the interests of the people at large, and that he will show it in an unmistakable manner in his message.

Admiral Dewey is quietly resting in Washington this week. Next Monday he will start to Atlanta, to present the sword to Lieut. Brumby, which his fellow Georgians have purchased for him as evidence of their appreciation of the credit he reflected upon his native state by his gallantry at the battle of Manila Bay. Admiral Dewey has accepted an invitation to visit Philadelphia as the guest of the city, on the 31st inst., and that will probably be the last of the public welcomes he will accept, as he will be needed in Washington to advise President McKinley on Philippine matters with which he is so thoroughly familiar, and to take part in the meeting of the Philippine Commission, of which he is a member.

First Assistant Postmaster General Heath, who spent several days with Senator Hanna in Ohio, returned to Washington this week. He says that while the campaign is a very warm one and McLean has the Democrats of the state better organized than they have ever before, he has no doubt that the state will go Republican by a large majority. He thinks the only danger to Republican success lies in the fact that the people are so prosperous that many Republicans are too busy to participate in the campaign, and so confident of party success that they may not leave their money-making long enough to vote. The danger is, however, lessening every day, as the increasing Democratic activity is causing the Republicans to see the necessity for getting out the full Republican vote in order to make the victory a decisive one.

Consular reports received by the Department of State have long ago shown that the iron and steel makers of Germany have become alarmed over American competition in their own markets, which they were at first inclined to make jokes about. A report just received from Frankfurt, Germany, encloses extracts from the annual report of the Chamber of Commerce of Bochum, which is the center of one of Germany's most prominent iron and steel districts. It shows an increase of 16 per cent in the importation of American pig iron during the past year, fine cast and wrought iron 25 per cent, common ironware 75 per cent, and bicycles and parts 166 per cent and says: "The value of these American articles imported into Germany in 1897 amounted to $2,380,000; in 1898 to $3,500,000. This extraordinary increase in so short a time gives cause for very serious concern, especially when it is considered that the demand in the United States has advanced enormously, so that no large stocks were available for foreign export. Consequently we have to reckon with certainty that the import of American iron and steel will continue to increase."

High School Entertainment.

The Senior and Junior classes of the High School gave a very creditable entertainment at the High School building last evening. The girls of the Junior class presented a first-class minstrel show, every part of which won for them well deserved applause. There is considerable talent in that line among the members of the Junior class and they demonstrated the fact to a finish last evening.

The Seniors acted largely to the enjoyment of the evening by adding a splendid supper.

$1,000,000.

T. N. Barnsdall and His Associates Have Sold

THEIR EXTENSIVE HOLDINGS

In Monroe County, O., and Wood, Tyler and Ritchie Counties, W. Va.

ONE THOUSAND BARREL PRODUCTION.

Including Some of the Best Producing Wells in This Territory.—George D. Appleton, the Purchaser.

By far the largest deal ever consummated in the oil business of this territory was closed at Parkersburg yesterday, and includes the sale of a 1000-barrel production and the holdings of T. N. Barnsdall and others in Monroe county, Ohio, and Wood, Tyler and Ritchie counties, West Virginia.

The purchaser of this immense property is George D. Appleton, of Wellesley, Mass. While the price is not definitely named, it is said to be in the neighborhood of one million dollars.

Mr. Barnsdall controlled a three-fourths interest in the property, the remaining one-fourth being owned by Longfellow Bros., Macksburg; J. W. Alexander, this city; W. J. Buck, of the Ann Oil Co., and Fred S. Rich.

It is said that the purchaser, Mr. Geo. D. Appleton, represents a powerful corporation about to be organized and to which he will transfer the property as soon as reorganization is effected.

The deal has been under consideration for about two months, and during that time Attorneys Smith D. Turner, of Parkersburg, and Charles A. Ludey, of this city, have been looking up titles and attending to all necessary legal points. Attorney Ludey will leave today for Woodfield to place the transfer of Monroe county stuff upon the records and attorney Turner will do the same in the counties across the river.

The property thus transferred includes a number of the best producing wells in what is known as the Southwest field, and much of it has been developed by Mr. Barnsdall and his associates during the past three years.

The purchase of this immense piece of oil property by Mr. Appleton and the prospects of a transfer of the same to a company are strong indications that a new and powerful corporation is about to enter the operating field of West Virginia and Southeastern Ohio, to an extent that at this time it is impossible to foresee.

In this deal Mr. Barnsdall is still sustaining his reputation as a fortunate oil man and it is a pretty sure thing that his profits in the deal are by no means small. Nor is there any doubt but that his colleagues made a neat little sum on their investment.

The sale, however, does not include all of Mr. Barnsdall's holdings, as he retains his properties at Whiskey Run, Ogden, Archers Fork and in part, at Jackson Ridge, and will still be the largest individual operator in Ohio or West Virginia.

Reserved seats for Lincoln J. Carter's big production "Under the Dome" will be on sale this morning at Gates' news depot this morning.

The Trusts and Commercial Travelers.

The howl of the McLean papers in regard to the terrible injury which trusts have done to the commercial travelers of the country, and the "hundreds of thousands" who are out of employment because of trusts, is a representative instance of Democratic campaign exaggeration.

The Order of the United Commercial Travelers of America is a representative organization, which includes a very large percentage of all the commercial travelers of the country.

Here are the figures of its growth in 1899, as compared with last year: New members for first nine months of 1898.....1,965 New members for first nine months of 1899.....2,412 Gain in excess of last year.....448 In other words nearly 500 more new members have been added to the U. C. T. in the nine months of 1899 than were in the same month of the preceding year, and in all 4278 new members were secured in the first nine months of the two years during which trusts have developed most rapidly.

If the trusts have injured the commercial travelers, it manifestly would also injure their organization; but the organization shows a big gain both last year and this, and demonstrates that the U. C. T. is stronger now than ever before. No better proof of the wild exaggeration and falsity of a favorite Democratic campaign fairy tale could be asked.

The Anti-Roberts Crusade.

The crusade against the Mormon Representative to Congress, although showing little activity during the summer, is breaking out again as the opening of Congress approaches, and from all sections protests are heard against seating Mr. Roberts or permitting him to remain. Congress is the judge of the qualifications of its members, and, as the action of Congress is largely influenced by the sentiment of the country, it is pretty sure that there will be a strong feeling against Mr. Roberts when he arrives in Washington. What will be done with him can not be foretold. But if the expressions of hostility continue to increase as rapidly as they have in the past few weeks, which is altogether likely, for the prevailing opinion is against Mr. Roberts, his experience will not be like a path of roses.

There are two sources from which the enmity to Mr. Roberts arises. One is the polygamous practice in which he persists, in defiance of the laws of the country and the compact made by Utah to gain admission to the federation of states. The other is the close relation of the Mormon church to the politics of such sections of the country as are under Mormon domination. It is hardly to be presumed that polygamy can ever find good ground for its culture in this country. Its practices are too apparent and too repulsive to the vast majority of the people. Without doubt the danger from the Mormon church is far less because of the plural marriages it tolerates than from its insidious meddling in politics. Coming from Utah as a representative of a political party, Mr. Roberts would have much less trouble in gaining the confidence of the American people, even with his polygamous record. But coming as the representative of the church and a religion will not be lightly regarded. Sects are not received with welcome at the capitol, no matter what they may be, and particularly if they come under the guise of church missionaries. Mr. Roberts has no enviable task ahead of him, if the agitation on his account is any indication.—Pittsburgh Times.

New Trial for Wanko.

The motion to set aside the verdict against George Wanko on the ground that it was contrary to law and the evidence, was argued this morning. Wanko was convicted a few days ago for voluntary manslaughter on his trial for killing Felix Carr in a boxing contest.

The chief argument was made by Judge McCluer, who went over the evidence in detail, and cited authorities showing that the verdict was not warranted by the evidence that had been submitted to the jury.

The contest was a friendly one permitted by the laws of the state, and both men had taken proper precautions against inflicting injury upon each other, wearing as they did, large padded gloves. Wanko did not know of Carr's physical condition. That was not developed until after the autopsy was held. Carr's vital organs were in such a condition that the physicians who testified that violent exercise of any kind might have caused death. Judge McCluer presented many good points in support of his argument. He was followed by J. D. Wolverton, who also presented some good points.

Judge Jackson reviewed the case at considerable length in passing upon the motion. He was of the opinion that there were no malice, and that Wanko had no intent to injure Carr, but that it was merely a misadventure, though a regrettable one. He sustained the motion to set the verdict aside and award the prisoner a new trial.

Wanko was brought before the Court this afternoon and bail was fixed at $1,000. Bail was given with Al Simms, Judge McCluer and J. D. Wolverton as sureties, and the prisoner was then released from custody.—Sentinel.

New Oil Company.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 20.—The owners of the Bricker farm well and leases near Cadiz, O., have organized themselves into a company to be known as the Bricker Oil Co., with a capitalization of $25,000. It is the purpose of the new company to begin active operations on the John Bricker and adjoining farms. Notwithstanding there has been the greatest excitement and the new strike has been visited by many prominent operators, few leases have been taken outside of those held by the owners of the Bricker well. The drillers who worked on the Bricker well secured a 70-acre lease some distance from the gusher for $500. It is reported that they sold it last Wednesday at an advance of $2,500. Farm owners a mile or more from the well are asking a bonus of $100 an acre, but operators are not anxious to invest at any such figures and at such long range from the producer. The Bricker well is flowing by heads and produced 50 barrels from 6 o'clock Wednesday evening to 11 o'clock Thursday morning. Nothing has been done to make it increase its production since it was shot last Saturday midnight. It is thought that it will increase its output after it has been cleaned out and put to pumping.

A $50,000 Deal.

Friday's Sentinel contained the following: "J. H. Caldwell and Col. S. H. Boyer, coming the oil firm Caldwell & Boyer, have sold their Peter Y. Six property in the Cairo field to T. N. Barnsdall, of Titusville. The deal was consummated Thursday afternoon and the new owner took possession of the property at once. The farm has seven producing wells on it, with average production of 160 barrels daily. It contains 75 acres and is considered one of the best farms in the Cairo field. The price paid for the property is between $50,000 and $60,000. It is said that Barnsdall will include this property in the sale of oil properties which is now being made by him to Boston parties.
